Dynamic Materials Corporation produces clad metal using explosives and shock synthesis. The Company’s products are used in the fabrication of pressure vessels, heat exchangers, and transition joints in the hydrocarbon, chemical, power generation, and petrochemical industries. The Company also forms and welds parts for the commercial aircraft, aerospace, and defense industries.