KEMET Corporation manufactures and sells solid tantalum and multilayer ceramic capacitors. The Company’s products are used in a wide variety of electronic applications, including communication systems, data processing equipment, personal computers, and military and aerospace systems. KEMET markets its capacitors to original equipment manufacturers around the world.